DETAILED ACTION

Election/Restrictions

1. Applicant's election of claims 1-4 and 19 in Paper No. 0603 is acknowledged. Because applicant did not distinctly and specifically point out the supposed errors in the restriction requirement, the election has been treated as an election without traverse (MPEP § 818.03(a)).

As indicated by examiner in telephone conversation of September 5, 2003 the previous Office action erroneously indicated Group I including claim 18 in lieu of claim 19 (see attached telephone interview record).

Priority

2. Receipt is acknowledged of papers submitted under 35 U.S.C. 119(a)-(d), which papers have been placed of record in the file.

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 102

3. The following is a quotation of the appropriate paragraphs of 35 U.S.C. 102 that form the basis for the rejections under this section made in this Office action:

A person shall be entitled to a patent unless –

(b) the invention was patented or described in a printed publication in this or a foreign country or in public use or on sale in this country, more than one year prior to the date of application for patent in the United States.

4. Claims 1-4 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 102(b) as being anticipated by Feigel et al. (US 4,841,186).

Feigel et al. disclose in Figures 2 and 3 invention as claimed: a rotor 4 having plural permanent magnets 42 and a stator 3 having plural slots 35, wherein the rotor is axially divided into three rotor blocks 47, 48, 49 wherein the three rotor blocks are layered so that arrangement angles of the rotor blocks differ from each other by an amount of a mechanical angle in a rotary direction.

The feature of the mechanical angle being equivalent to one third of a pulsation period of cogging torque generated by the rotor and stator is inherent to the disclosed structure.

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 103

5. The following is a quotation of 35 U.S.C. 103(a) which forms the basis for all obviousness rejections set forth in this Office action:

(a) A patent may not be obtained though the invention is not identically disclosed or described as set forth in section 102 of this title, if the differences between the subject matter sought to be patented and the prior art are such that the subject matter as a whole would have been obvious at the time the invention was made to a person having ordinary skill in the art to which said subject matter pertains. Patentability shall not be negated by the manner in which the invention was made.

6. Claim 19 is rejected under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) as being unpatentable over Feigel et al. (US 4,841,186) in view of Dokonal et al. (US 6,380,654).

Feigel et al. discloses the motor essentially as claimed. However, Feigel et al. do not disclose the rotor having magnets produced by magnetizing the rotor blocks or rotor by using the stator as a magnetic yoke after assembling the motor.

Dokonal et al. disclose the rotor having magnets produced by magnetizing the rotor by using the stator as a magnetic yoke after assembling the motor for the purpose of eliminating the possibility of occurring a magnetic attraction of the rotor magnets onto particles or adjacent parts of the magnets during the handling, transportation or storage of the rotor.

It would have been obvious to one having ordinary skill in the art at the time the invention was made to design the motor as taught by Feigel et al. and to provide the magnets produced by magnetizing the rotor by using the stator as a magnetic yoke after assembling the motor as taught by Dokonal et al. for the purpose of eliminating the possibility of occurring a magnetic attraction of the rotor magnets onto particles or adjacent parts of the magnets during the handling, transportation or storage of the rotor.

Prior Art

7. The prior art made of record and not relied upon is considered pertinent to applicant's disclosure.
